

What is KOSA?

KOSA is an acronym of Korean Orthodox Saahm Acupuncture.

Fractal by Benoît B. Mandelbrot

In 1975, Polish mathematician, Benoît B. Mandelbrot announced a thesis, Fractal.

His thesis is that a small rock fell down from the top of the mountain and resembles the entire mountain it used to belong to.

DNA

Just like Fractal theory, DNA resembles our entire body.

Similarity and Yin, Yang & 5 Elements

The oriental medicine starts from the theory, Yin, Yang & 5 Elements.

As cited above fractal and DNA, the similarity concept has long been used in oriental theory that the cosmos consists of Yin, Yang & 5 Elements and thus, our body lives in the cosmos shall resemble the cosmos. Thus, our body also consists of Yin, Yang & 5 Elements, which are twelve organs of Lung, Large intestine, Stomach, Spleen (Pancreas), Heart, Small intestine, Bladder, Kidney, Pericardium, Triple Energizer, Gallbladder and Liver.

The brain is not an organ and it falls under the control of the organs. The brain does not control organs. Rather, not just physical health problems but also all emotional and psychological issues need to be treated by treating organs.

KOSA has successfully treated dyslexia with a single treatment and improved memorizing capability of a medicine college student already with a photographic memory.

KOSA has also successfully regenerated cartilages on bone on bone arthritis patients multiple times.

All twelve organs has its own two symmetrical meridians, which connects acupuncture points and we have a total of 361 acupuncture points.

Because all twelve organs is a part of our body, each organ has its own 5 element acupuncture points.

KOSA is the only acupuncture known how to properly utilize 5 element acupuncture points.

THEORETICALLY, KOSA IS SUPPOSED TO BE ABLE TO TREAT ANY CONDITIONS, PHYSICAL OR EMOTIONAL.
